

One of the strongest single genetic risk factors for heart disease is not rare, or due to an unhealthy lifestyle, or found only in patients with other cardiovascular risk factors. It's elevated Lp(a), and a simple blood test can inform a lifetime of cardiovascular care. Add an Lp(a) test to your patients next routine blood work. And find out more at UncoverLpa.com.